Crawford County has been one of Illinois' most prolific oil producing counties for more than a century. Crawford County's oil production totaled more than 776,000 barrels in 2019, third-most in the state. Crawford County's longtime oil production has generated significant property tax revenues for the county, totaling more than $5.85 million from 2007-2019. IPRB conservatively estimates that at least $2.9 million of that revenue primarily went to fund the four public school districts based in the county and their combined 2,873 students.
